ABOUT

I'm an enthusiastic Computer Engineering student at Universitas Multimedia Nusantara, driven to innovate through technology. With a solid foundation in computer engineering, I'm passionate about exploring diverse areas within the tech field. I enjoy working on projects that combine innovation, performance, and creativity, applying my skills to deliver efficient and impactful solutions across various technological domains. Beyond technical skills, my experience in campus has strengthened my teamwork and problem-solving abilities. Collaborating with a talented group on various projects has taught me how to tackle challenges efficiently and communicate effectively. I also have a keen interest in management and business, which I explore through competitions focused on strategy, leadership, and innovation.
